

Financial Year 2025–2026

Introduction

Air Business Limited acknowledges the provisions of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and remains fully committed to ensuring transparency within our organisation and throughout our supply chains. We continue to uphold the highest standards of ethical conduct and operate with integrity, promoting fair treatment, dignity, and respect for all individuals connected to our business.

Modern slavery refers to situations where individuals are exploited and are unable to leave due to threats, coercion, or deception. This includes, but is not limited to, forced labour, human trafficking, domestic servitude, and forced marriage. Air Business maintains a zero-tolerance approach to any form of modern slavery.

Our Business

Based in Hatfield, Air Business was established in 1986 and became a wholly owned subsidiary of An Post (the National Post Office of Ireland) in 2002. The company expanded in 2009 with the acquisition of a direct mail fulfilment service (formerly Jorden & Co) and again in 2011 through the acquisition of a global subscription management bureau (formerly Quadrant Subscription Services) based in Haywards Heath.

Today, Air Business serves many of the UK's leading businesses and organisations across publishing, memberships, associations, and e-commerce. In 2024, we broadened our portfolio by expanding into the Global Event Logistics sector. As a market leader with decades of experience, we recognise our responsibility to uphold human rights and fair labour practices across all operations.

Our Supply Chains

To move material globally, we rely on a wide network of postal providers and distribution partners—many of whom are long-standing, trusted suppliers. All suppliers are required to comply with the Modern Slavery Act 2015. Failure to do so results in immediate termination of our business relationship.

We continue to strengthen our supplier's due diligence processes, which include:

We remain confident that our supply chain presents a low risk; however, we continue to monitor and enhance our processes to safeguard against any potential risks.
